Dee (Daryl Dubpernell) was born on February 18, 1943, in Watertown, CT, and passed away on July 7, 2011. Dee married Mike Dickman, PhD'68, in 1962, and in 1965 they moved to Canada to attend UBC. They lived on campus in a plywood row house on Mustang Avenue, originally constructed for soldiers returning to Canada after WWII. Dee was used to roughing it and was always the optimist. She graduated at the top of her class in library science and was offered a job as a librarian at UBC's Sedgewick Library. This started Dee on a long and rewarding journey of helping students -- something she did for 47 years as a university librarian at UBC, Carleton University and Brock University. Dee's two sons, Sven and Tim, were encouraged to learn French to attend French immersion schools in St. Catharines, ON. In 1988, Dee spent many days at the Port Dalhousie rowing basin watching Sven practice and compete at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, where he and his coxed 8 team won a silver and three gold medals. In 2006 Tim moved to Vancouver to take a job at the Storyeum Museum in Gastown. Storyeum was a live, interactive, educational creation of British Columbia's history through special effects, actors and actresses in a 65-minute show. Dee loved the picture of Tim wheeling a nine-metre-long, life-size model of a Triceratops down Water Street in front of the Storyeum. Dee's sister, Robbie, one of two twins some 13 years older than Dee, drove with Dee to Detroit to visit their father, an electroplating chemist who had recently donated his life's acquisitions on the history of metal plating, to Wayne State University. The Wayne State chief librarian thanked him in a formal awards ceremony at the University that Dee and Robbie attended. In St. Catharines, Dee was an active member of PENS and LACAC in St. Catharines, ON, which involved her in local planning and heritage issues respectively. In August 2009, Dee began chemotherapy treatment with Prochlorperazine and Dexamethasone. On July 7, 2011, Dee died of lung cancer. On July 13, Pond Inlet at Brock University was filled with her friends and colleagues, who came to remember her. Her enlarged picture was hung on the wall, together with the following words: For nearly 35 years, Dee Dickman provided research support to Brock faculty and students in a variety of areas including history, Canadian studies, Classics, Education and Applied Language Studies. Always keen to learn and mentor, she thoroughly enjoyed working with students. She will be fondly remembered by her colleagues for her enthusiasm, positive disposition and desire to help others.

Dee is survived by her two sons, Sven and Tim, and grandchildren Angele and Esteban.

... Golden

Franny Golden lives in Brewster, Cape Cod, Massachusetts. She is the recipient of an NEA Fellowship in London and has won numerous national and international prizes including two Ragdale Foundation Residency Fellowships, a Vermont Colony Residency Fellowship, a Brisons Veor Cornwall (England) Residency Fellowship, and a Villa Moltavo (California) Residency Fellowship. She has been an Artist in Residence and Professor of Painting, Drawing, and the History of Art at Cape Cod Community College.

A noted instructor of painting, drawing, life drawing, and the history of art for over 17 years, she has taught painting at the Provincetown Art Association, the Massachusetts College of Art, and the Cape Cod Conservatory. This summer she is an instructor in painting at Castle Hill Center for the Arts, Truro. Her work is in the permanent collection of the Cape Museum of Fine Arts, where she had a one-woman show in 2003. Her work resides in many private and museum collections throughout the world.

Ms. Golden has taught and painted in Istanbul, Turkey, where she lived from 1990 - 1994, and currently divides her time between Cape Cod and France, where her solo exhibit at the Musee de la Boite is currently running (ending July 10) in the village of Francescas, Lot-et-Garonne, in the Aquitaine/Gascony region of southern France, where the artist maintains a 13th century residency/atelier. Her oil paintings reflect her travels to exotic locales, particularly her period of painting and living in Eastern Europe, as evidenced in her large colorful oil-on-paper works of mosque (camii) interiors in Istanbul and Bulgaria, as well as her intricately detailed oils of Kilim rug patterns. Another aspect to her varied palette is Ms. Golden's still lifes of richly detailed fruits -- pomegranates, star fruits, pears, watermelons, figs, peaches, and crab apples -- in charcoal on paper drawings and densely luscious abstract oils.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

"As a painter I am committed to process as a necessary part of personal individualisation, and as a necessary part of the completed painting. So my paintings reveal that process; lines, drawings, failed efforts remain--emerging through the layers. They are variations of still lifes, interiors, portraits--increasingly more abstract. They are visual journals--the dates of completion being their titles. They are from times and moments in my life; I can look at every painting I ever made and tell you all about life at the time it was painted, and in particular, some pretty astonishing, emotive, indelible stories from the recent three-and-a-half years of having lived and painted and taught in Turkey.

"Turkey has obviously influenced my painting and, to a certain extent, facilitated a more abstract direction. I am a walker, a public transportation maven. So it was difficult to miss much--sounds of soprano voices, smells of grilled food, untold textures, saturated colors, flowing patterns. And gold: lots of it!

"In addition to the process, there is the repetition of form, color and gold paint. Almost certainly some forms are archetypal--probably personal statements about being a woman. (Although it is difficult to articulate such a statement, it is something I feel.) The hues, the forms, the gold are, as well, manifestations of Turkey; the sphere, the dome, the arch are clearly architectural--ubiquitous here. The sphere has also come to symbolize the abundance of profuse, voluptuous fruit, as well as the hot, relentless sun.

"Academically--intellectually--I want to take these forms and use them as color. And take these colors and use them as form. It is critical to work both of these elements at the same level, on the same picture plane; to work both elements as intervals, as in music--or even in mathematics. Hopefully, then, the harmony, the motion--and the necessary tension--will work indivisibly toward an expressionistic composition."

Don Callihan (59) - 9-62

Neva Callihan, 81, a 57-year resident of Royal Oak, went peacefully, from her home, to be with God on the morning of April 8, 2021. Born March 1, 1940, in Royal Oak, to Clyde and Ellen (Geiger) Tremper, she is survived by husband, Donald, Royal Oak, children James (Deborah) Callihan, Waterford, Susan (John) Showers, Royal Oak, Jeffrey Callihan, Whitefish, Montana and Melissa (Martin) Carey, Troy and grandchildren Jacob and Jessica Showers, Royal Oak and Mya Carey, Troy and brother Richard Tremper, Concrete, Washington. She was preceded in death by sisters May Ann White, Judith Kay and Carol Hoover, and brother John Tremper.

Neva loved children and volunteered at both Churchill and Northwood Elementary Schools. This love carried over to her career at the Birmingham location of Jacobson's Stores, Inc., where she worked in 1980s and 90s, as a sales associate in the Boy's Department.

She was a member of North Hills Christian Reformed Church, Troy, Clawson United Methodist Women and Jacobson's Stores Retirees Group. One of her favorite pastimes was purchasing baby clothing to donate to the Clawson United Methodist Women's Layette Project that provides an initial supply of baby clothing to indigent mothers.

Neva was a quiet person who overcame numerous obstacles in her early life to become a successful and loving wife, mother, grandmother and friend to many. Upon learning that Neva was in hospice, a long-time friend whom she had not seen for many years wrote to her: "My mind is filled with so many thoughts of us with our children, laughing and playing. Neva, you taught me so much - I know you went through a difficult childhood, but you had this calm, joyous way about you that always made me feel that we would be all right. I thank you for helping me believe I could be strong and kind like you. Whatever happens, please know I love you so much and will always strive to be the sweet, kind, generous and beautiful person you are."

Visitation and services are currently pending at Wm. Sullivan and Son Funeral Home, Royal Oak. Burial at Roseland Park Cemetery, Berkley.

Memorials to North Hill Christian Reformed Church and Detroit Methodist Children's Home are appreciated.
